Environetics Ranked As the 15th In 2007 Top Architecture Firms to Work For Survey

Environetics recognized as highly respected firm in annual survey by ZweigWhite.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., November 5, 2007 – Environetics, a full-service interior architectural design and space-planning firm, was ranked 15th in the 2007 Best Architecture Firm To Work For listing published by ZweigWhite, a management consulting firm providing information and education for the design and construction industry. The ranking is based on the firm’s commitment to provide a positive work environment and challenging and interesting design opportunities for its employees.

“Our continual promise to produce excellent work, provide advancement opportunities for our team, and deliver the benefits and flexibility required to maintain a satisfying work/life balance, including the Hybrid car policy, truly combine to make Environetics one of the best architecture firms to work for,” said Richard Lehman, EVP and director of design at Environetics. “We are intent on giving our employees the space they need to be creative, inventive and progressive in their quest to develop fresh designs that meet our clients’ functional needs while outwardly communicating their culture, brand and vision.”

Environetics’ creative entrepreneurial spirit and its outstanding benefits program, dedication to employee training and development, and open book policies were among the top reasons Environetics stood out among the top firms. The firm, which received higher average ratings on 55 of 70 criteria than any other firm, was recognized at an awards reception in October during the Best Firm to Work For Summit in Boston.

Environetics creates innovative custom interiors for selected market sectors, including financial, entertainment, high tech and corporate office environments. The firm is known for its service, driven by a thorough understanding of their clients' needs through continuous communication. Its flexible approach extends throughout each project. Some of the firm’s most notable clients include Fox Entertainment Group, Fremont General, Countrywide Financial, Insomniac Games, Jamba, Corcoran Group, Gemstar-TV Guide and United Online.
