Jennifer O'Shea, NCIDQ Joins Environetics

Environetics is proud to announce the addition of Jennifer O'Shea, NCIDQ to the firm's healthcare team. Jennifer offers over 15 years of experience in interior design for healthcare facilities. Her expertise includes the spectrum of inpatient and outpatient facilities.

Jennifer's strengths lie in creating unique designs while working with the client to assure that their project is on the leading edge of healthcare delivery. Jen brings advanced skills in evidence based design as well as LEAN process. As a Senior Interior Designer for Environetics, Jennifer's role will be to deliver designs that comply with the many technical and regulatory requirements that pose significant challenges to our healthcare clients from pre-design through construction.

"We are thrilled to have Jennifer join Environetics. She brings to the firm a wealth of knowledge and expertise that will support our commitment to designing budget sensitive, high performance healthcare facilities," says Fletcher MacNeill, Principal, Healthcare.

In joining Environetics, Jennifer strengthens the firm's healthcare expertise, complimenting recent project experience with such clients as St. Mary Medical Center, Nemours – A.I. duPont Hospital for Children, Lourdes Health System, Kennedy Health System, Cooper University Healthcare, Crozer Keystone Health System, Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, and University Medical Center of Princeton.
