Environetics Named A “Best Place to Work in Los Angeles” by the *Los Angeles Business Journal

Local award complements the firm’s 2007 “Best Firm To Work For” ranking by a national management consultant and research firm, ZweigWhite.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., August 25, 2008 – Environetics (www.Environetics.com), a full-service interior architectural design and space-planning firm providing workplace solutions, was ranked second among small businesses in the Los Angeles Business Journal’s “Best Place to Work in Los Angeles” competition, an honor that complements its ranking as the 15th “Best Firm to Work For” by ZweigWhite management consulting and research firm following its nationwide review. The Los Angeles Business Journal award annually recognizes the best practices and employers in Los Angeles County.

“Environetics is dedicated to nurturing a creative environment that generates leading-edge designs, which reflect our clients’ core values,” commented Rodney Stone, president of Environetics. “The hard work and dedication of our employees, as well as our commitment to customer satisfaction have helped us achieve this extraordinary level of success. This recognition confirms our efforts and fuels our dedication to excellence as we look toward future projects.”

For the Los Angeles Business Journal’s award, Environetics participated in a thorough reporting process, which evaluated the firm’s leadership and planning, corporate culture and communications, work environment, training and development, pay and benefits, and other factors. Winners were determined based on the report findings.

“These awards clearly reflect the outstanding work and passion for innovation and excellence we’ve experienced working with Environetics,” said Ted C. Price, President/CEO, Insomniac Games. “The firm’s commitment to delivering creative solutions and managing projects seamlessly has made a tremendous impact on our workplace environment, and we look forward to the firm’s continued support.”

Environetics LABJ Award

Environetics' ZweigWhite ranking was based on its commitment to provide a positive work environment and challenging and interesting design opportunities for its employees. The firm's encouragement of professional development and individual recognition, strong sense of firm culture, and successful teamwork, along with its commitment to client satisfaction were cited as specific reasons for its top ranking.

In its 29th year of publication, the Los Angeles Business Journal is Los Angeles County's premier source for business news and analysis. Each week, the publication examines the many ways that the Los Angeles economy operates, and editorial and research teams provide in-depth analyses of the community's ever-changing business and economic scene.
